

A weather map showing the path of Hurricane Irma. The map covers Florida, the Bahamas, and parts of the Caribbean. The hurricane is depicted as a large, swirling cloud system with a red eye, moving from the southwest towards the northeast. The word 'FLORIDA' is visible in the upper left, 'Tampa' and 'St Petersburg' are labeled on the Florida coast, 'Nassau' is labeled on the Bahamas, and 'THE BAHAMAS' is written at the bottom. A teal box with a white border is overlaid on the map, containing the event title and date.
