

Position Open: Affordable Housing Technical Advisor

The Florida Housing Coalition (Coalition), a statewide nonprofit providing training and technical assistance on affordable housing, is seeking a Technical Advisor to support our existing work, including, but not limited to, our Center for Racial Equity. For decades, the Coalition has worked on housing planning, finance, program implementation, and policy issues related to affordable housing, including ending homelessness, promoting community land trusts, supporting inclusionary housing policies, affirmatively furthering fair housing, and fighting NIMBYism. This position reports to the Chief Programs Officer (CPO) and provides technical expertise and support for every programmatic team at the Coalition.

- Work with the Research Manager on policies at the intersection of housing and race.
- Support the programmatic teams at the Coalition to put a racial equity lens on their work.

Qualifications:

The ideal candidate will be someone well versed in affordable housing planning and finance, but this is not a requirement. A quick study who shares our passion for this work, particularly addressing inequity in housing and supporting policies that address racial disparities in housing is required. The preferred candidate is a recent law school graduate or Master's in Urban & Regional Planning graduate with a commitment to social justice.

Specific qualifications include:

- Excellent communication skills, both verbal and written.
- Comfort with quantitative and qualitative data.
- Knowledge of affordable housing programs and policies.
- Capacity to understand and process regulations, land use law, and policy documents.
- Excellent presentation and training skills.
- Self-starter, able to work independently and collaboratively; enjoys creating and implementing new initiatives to further the mission of the Florida Housing Coalition.
